

TSANGAI BUSINESS GROWTH SERIES · #04

The AI Prompt Starter Pack

Seven copy/paste prompts that handle real business work — emails, follow-ups, reviews, and SOPs — plus the simple formula behind every great prompt.

WHO IT'S FOR

Owners who've opened ChatGPT, typed something vague, and given up

TIME REQUIRED

10 minutes

WHAT YOU'LL ACHIEVE

Your first genuinely useful AI output — today, from prompt #1

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

AI isn't bad at your business. Your prompts are just too short.

Vague question in, generic answer out. This pack gives you seven proven prompts and the four-part formula they're built on, so AI finally sounds like your business.

"I tried ChatGPT. It was generic." I hear it weekly. Then I look at the prompt: eight words, no context. You'd never brief a new employee that way. Treat AI like a smart new hire — tell it who it is, what you need, what it should know, and what the output should look like. Everything changes.

— Ray, TsangAI Consulting

WHY THIS MATTERS

4 parts

Role, Task, Context, Format — every strong prompt has all four

10x

A one-minute prompt setup routinely beats an hour of blank-page writing

7

Ready-to-use prompts inside, covering your most common weekly tasks

THE ONE IDEA

The R-T-C-F Formula: Role, Task, Context, Format

Role: who the AI should be. Task: exactly what you want. Context: your business, customer, and tone.

Format: what the answer should look like. Miss one and quality drops fast.

Example: Instead of "write a follow-up email," try: "You are my sales assistant (Role). Write a follow-up to a quote we sent Tuesday (Task). We're a roofing company; the client worried about price (Context). Under 100 words, friendly, one clear next step (Format)."

YOUR 10-MINUTE QUICK WIN

- ☐ Open ChatGPT or Claude (free versions are fine)
- ☐ Copy Prompt #1 from page 4 and fill in the [BRACKETS]
- ☐ Paste in a real customer email and read the draft
- ☐ Edit for 30 seconds and send it — that's your first AI win

Five steps to prompts that sound like you

1 Write your Business Brief once

Three sentences: what you do, who you serve, how you sound. You'll paste this into every prompt as instant context.

Do this: Fill in the Business Brief template on page 4. Save it in your notes app.

2 Run your first prompt on real work

Not a test. A real email, a real review, a real follow-up sitting in your queue right now. Real stakes show real value.

Do this: Use Prompt #1 or #2 from page 4 on something due today.

3 Improve the output — don't restart

First drafts are 80% there. Reply with "shorter," "warmer," or "add a deadline" instead of writing a new prompt. Each reply sharpens it.

Do this: Give at least two follow-up instructions before you judge the result.

4 Save your winners in a prompt library

When a prompt produces something you actually sent, it's an asset. Store it where you and your team can reuse it.

Do this: Create one note titled "Prompt Library." Paste tweaked winners with a one-line label.

5 Make it a daily default

New habit rule: before doing any writing task by hand, ask "did I try the prompt first?" Two weeks of this and it's automatic.

Do this: Pin your AI tool as the first tab in your browser.

COMMON MISTAKES

This is where most business owners get stuck.

They write one-line prompts and expect mind reading. They quit after one mediocre draft instead of replying "make it better." And they never save what worked — so every day starts from zero.

PRO TIP

End tricky prompts with: "Ask me three questions before you answer." The AI fills its own context gaps, and the quality jump feels like upgrading to a better model — for free.

Your Business Brief + the Starter Seven

The Business Brief (fill once, paste everywhere)

My business: [NAME], a [WHAT YOU DO] serving [WHO] in [AREA]. Our tone: [e.g. friendly, plain-spoken, professional]. Never use hype words or jargon.

1 • Email Reply

[Business Brief] Draft a reply to this customer email. Answer their question, offer [NEXT STEP], stay under 120 words: [PASTE EMAIL]

5 • SOP Writer

[Business Brief] I'll describe how I do a task. Turn it into a numbered SOP a brand-new hire could follow, with a checklist at the end: [DESCRIBE TASK]

2 • Quote Follow-Up

[Business Brief] Write a friendly follow-up on a quote sent [WHEN] for [SERVICE]. No pressure tone, one clear question, under 90 words.

6 • Content Ideas

[Business Brief] Give me 10 post ideas answering real questions [WHO] ask before buying. For each: a hook line and a 2-sentence outline.

3 • Review Reply

[Business Brief] Reply to this [5-STAR / CRITICAL] review. Thank them, sound human not corporate, under 60 words: [PASTE REVIEW]

7 • The Explainer

[Business Brief] Rewrite this so a busy customer instantly gets it. Grade 6 reading level, no jargon, half the length: [PASTE TEXT]

4 • Meeting Summary

[Business Brief] Turn these rough notes into: decisions made, action items with owners, and open questions. Bullet points only: [PASTE NOTES]

REMEMBER R-T-C-F

Every prompt here already has Role, Task, Context, and Format built in. When you write your own, check all four are present before blaming the AI.

Turn this guide into one win this week.

A guide you read changes nothing. A page you fill in does. Two minutes — do it while it's fresh.

1 · WHERE I AM TODAY

Business Brief written? ☐ First prompt I ran: _____

2 · THE ONE THING I'M FIXING THIS WEEK

My one fix: _____

The first small step (under 15 minutes): _____

Small beats big. Pick something you can finish in one sitting.

3 · WHEN I'M DOING IT

Day: _____ Time: _____ Booked in my calendar? ☐

Open your calendar and book it now — a plan without a time slot is a wish.

4 · AFTER — WHAT HAPPENED

My result (hours saved, jobs booked, thing shipped): _____

What I'll do differently next time: _____

NOTES

KEEP THE STREAK

One fix a week is 52 upgrades a year. When this page is full, re-take the guide — a rising score is proof your systems are working.